

YET ANOTHER FEATHER IN THE CAP OF HIM JYOTIANS.....

It is with a great sense of pride and privilege that I pen down my thoughts today as the first Editor of the Him Jyoti Webzine. Him Jyoti School, the dream of one man, our Mentor, Shri Sudarshan Agarwal, former Governor, Uttarakhand and Sikkim has seen a huge growth since its inception on 11th July 2005. The launch of the School Webzine 'DRISHTI' is just another step in this journey towards empowerment of our girls who come from the remotest corners of the state.

Having travelled from far and wide, our girls have discovered the true meaning of many aspects of life and everything associated with it and their writings reflect that. The Webzine is a window to showcase their talent and achievements and encourage them to write more. It is also an attempt to stir their souls and awaken the writers in them. Most importantly it is an attempt to give the girls the confidence that they can do what they aspire to.

The thoughtful writings on various subjects would absolutely set the minds of the readers ticking and would amaze them as they get an insight into the deep and profound ideas of the young Him Jyotians.

It is believed that writers invoke the deities to bless them with poetry, to some, poetry actually happens in their dream and to their surprise they remember it word by word which is thus reproduced, first thing in the morning.

Such are these girls blessed by God and who knows from here we might witness the making of the next Shelley, Byron, Coleridge or Wordsworth.

Writing is but one forte our girls possess. One and all of you are urged to doff off your hats to our young, blooming writers and let us pray to God to bless them all.

Happy Reading!

Suhani Singh