

LET YOU GO..

When you entered my life
I was surrounded with queries
World around me seemed a messy
You walked in
And took me out...very far
I thank you

I started walking alone
As no one wanted to accompany me
All my beloveds left my hand,
All thee vows they made broke
The magic that connected me with them...ended..
The moment trouble surrounded me
At that moment you gave me
Hope and sympathy
Next you joined me
For that I remember you.

We walked hand in hand
Shoulder to shoulder
It encouraged me
To forget the past
And I moved ahead
Questions arose
And you settled them.

People around called me the culprit
You stood for me
Like a lawyer
With an expression most royal
With that look you won the support
People behaved as if nothing had happened
All because of you
For that I bow to you.

You had an answer to every question
Solution to all my problems
You respected every soul
You were never biased
Your soul I felt.
Was the purest of all
People raised hell
But you were calm
You showered love on me

We shared joys and wishes
In a way that was strange
Anyway, above all we could always manage.
People doubted me
But you never did
For that I respect you.

You hired me with nothing
But yet I was happy
Because I knew that the glow on your face was not fiction.
At first we were friends
But we grew closer because
You chose to walk with me
In the lonely corridors
I thought I had everything that I needed
You never questioned my ways
For that I praise you

But your presence made me self centered
I never thought about what you wished
To speak the truth
I would not have given it a thought
Had it not been of the ruthless sarcasm
By the crowd
Though my love for you increased everyday
But when I observed your sacrifice
Tears rolled down my eyes
I realized, that I was living in a fool's paradise
I realized you were not mine
In fact I was a spine in your life
Then the problem arose
That none could solve
Because then I felt it was late
I had no authority on my heart and
Could not ask it to separate.

I now knew that you were
Only food for thought
You were now my spinal cord
And that was the only apple of discord
I never realized the sorrows behind your smile
I never realized that it was just I who loved you
I assumed it was same for you
Now I realize it was all an illusion
I now know that I am the barrier between you and happiness

I gave you sorrow that none could heal
For that I owe you an apology and also respect you.

I now just wish we had never met
Thought I realize it would have been bad
But I think this is worse
This life is like a curse
I cannot breathe independently
I can just observe cruelty
It was better before than it is lately
And the reason is the exposure to reality
I know I cannot hold you
Because I just
Don't possess you
But forgetting you is also a difficulty
For that I blame you.

By: Vani Barmola
Class: VIII